

OUTCOME OF FIGHTING IN POLAND CONTINUES TO REMAIN A MYSTERY

BERLIN AND PETROGRAD
STRANGELY WITHHOLD OF-FICIAL STATEMENTS RE-GARDING EASTERN
BATTLE.

LULL ON WESTERN FIELD

Germany Has Evidently Relinquished Offensive Tactics Pursued So Relentlessly During Earlier Weeks of Campaign.

The campaign in France and Belgium, commonly regarded as the main theater of the European war, seemed today to have entered at least temporarily upon a new phase. For the time being Germany has relinquished
the offensive which she held so relentlessly during the earlier weeks of the war.

Official statements from Berlin and Paris show that the fighting which has been diminishing steadily in severity the last few weeks, has become faintly out to a mere series of detached skirmishes involving only small numbers of men. It remains to be seen whether this state of affairs was the prelude to another German onslaught, or whether that Germany had adopted new tactics which would thrust upon the allies the burden of attack.

The French statement is to the effect that in the Argonne where some of the most spirited fighting has been in progress recently, there were only small engagements yesterday. Ground was taken by the Germans and re-
taken by the allies, but the insignificant scale of these operations measured by the magnitude of the war as a whole is shown by the statement that the fighting involved no more than one battalion and the disputed ground extended over no more than twenty-five yards.

The German statement reports
some progress in this region. At a few other points further west in France and in Belgium there were small battles.

The situation in Russian Poland,
the present object of such great importance concerning the allies, is dismissed in the German statement in the sentence, "It is merely said that there were no decisive engagements in the east yesterday."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Nov. 27.—At few times
since the European war began, nearly four months ago, have reports from the various fields of battle, scattered from the North Sea to the western fringe of Asia, been so incomplete
and confusing, as was the case today.

So far as can be learned from official announcements, there was little change in the situation of the opposing forces in any quarter, notwithstanding the fact that operations of the highest importance are under way.

The situation in Russian Poland, at present the scene of the most important conflict, has become one of the most puzzling phases of the war.
An official Austrian statement is to the effect that the fighting has assumed the character of a continuous
battle.

In western Galicia it is said that the Russian army has been repulsed
by the Austrians. Latest advices from Berlin state that the outcome has not yet been decided.

Opposed to this are the unofficial statements from Petrograd, Arras, and London that Germany has been defeated decisively and Earl Kitchener's announcement in parliament that Germany has suffered the most serious reversal of the war. For nearly a week these claims have been made with the utmost confidence, yet the Russian war office has withstood any word of decisive developments.

In some particulars a similar situation prevails in the west. London expected that this week would witness
one of the most important and decisive struggles of the war as a result of renewed efforts to break through to the English Channel. Official statements, however, indicate that only sporadic fighting is in progress, and as to the result, there is no recalling the report from Berlin and Paris.

There is a corresponding conflict
concerning the campaign in Serbia.
The Austrian war office asserted that the advance into Serbia is being used forward successfully, and that the Serbs were beaten in two engagements. An official statement issued at Nish, however, contains no reference to such circumstances, merely saying that the battle continues
along the main front near the Kolubara river.

the line during the day of Nov. 26.
Two infantry attacks directed against the heads of bridges which we have thrown down on the right bank of the Yser to the south of Dixmude, were easily repulsed.

"There was no other engagement
on the rest of the front in Belgium
as far as the Oise, nor was there an action on the Aisne or in Champagne.
Nevertheless, Rheims was rather violently bombarded during the time
that a number of journalists from neutral countries were making a visit to the city."

"In the Argonne, some infantry attacks resulted in the loss, and then
the recapture of certain trenches.
The engagements in this fighting never exceeded a battalion. The ground lost and then retaken was never more than a few hundred yards."

"Along the heights of the Meuse
and the Vosges there is nothing to report."

Berlin Announcement.
Berlin, Nov. 27.—An official announcement given out in Berlin today
says:

"English ships did not attack the coast of Flanders yesterday. There have been no actual changes along the battle front in the western area. To the north of Longue-march we have taken a group of houses and made a number of prisoners."

"Our attack in the Argonne region
has made further progress. French attacks in the neighborhood of Ep-remont and east of St. Mihiel were repulsed."

"In the western area of the war
there were no decisive engagements
yesterday."

Still Await Details.
London, Nov. 27.—While the belief grows hourly that the Russians in northern Poland have won the greatest battle of the war, actual details of the operations in this locality still are withheld and the whole incident is beginning to take on the aspect of a mystery.

From Petrograd comes a report that the patience of the Russian people awaiting confirmation of the reported victory is approaching the breaking point, and the same thing may be said of the public here. German reports, without entering into any such details
as dates, describe successful operations in the region of this great battle,
but admit that the German army has not succeeded in bringing this struggle to a close.

Envoys Von Hindenburg.
It is evident that the comparative failure of the Austro-German operations along the Czenstochowa front gave the Russians an opportunity to develop General Von Hindenburg,
after this brilliant German leader
had thrown a wedge into his antago-nists' center. The Russian to the west of the safe on their own advances, able to strike northward, thus breaking the enemy who had passed east
beyond their right flank.

Military critics at Petrograd profess
to be astonished at the Russian success at Lodz, maintaining that such a movement made the defeat of the invaders inevitable. The critics declare that unless the German advance toward Kutno and Lodz was part of a larger movement the operations were too hazardous to be credible. A third German army in the vicinity of Wielun has been reported to have which is believed in London to have been started too late to be of any use.

Along the Franco-Belgian line nothing is reported, but it is indicated
that the Germans have started the expected resumption of their effort to break
through the allied line on their way to the coast.

No Action at Suez.
Thirty miles to the east of the Suez canal British forces are in touch with Turkish invaders, but there is no sign of a general action in this vicinity.
It is expected that the invasion of Egypt probably will be postponed
because the Turks would appear to be hard pressed in Armenia and around the Persian gulf.

Additional details concerning the loss of Sheerness yesterday of the battleship Bulwark and her entire crew with the exception of fourteen men, who were taken aboard by the German submarine, was blown up by an internal explosion more and more plausible. An official inquiry, which is being held in private, was opened in Sheerness
today.

A Continuous Battle.
Berlin, by wireless, Nov. 27.—An official report issued in Vienna says:
"The fighting in Russian Poland has assumed the proportions of a continuous battle. In western Galicia our troops have repulsed the Russians.
Marked progress has been made in the fighting in the Carpathians."

Near the Kolubara river, in Serbia,
the enemy's center is in a very strong position near Lazarevatz, but we attacked and took 1,200 prisoners, three guns, four ammunition wagons and three machine guns. To the south of Lodz we took the eastern heights and three hundred prisoners.

WHERE ARMIES OF THE SULTAN HAVE REACHED THE SUEZ CANAL

Where the Turks have reached the Suez Canal—according to reports from Constantinople—is shown at (A). El Kantara, a small village on the west bank of this waterway, is at the head of Lake Mangala.

PEACE TALK ABSURD IS GERMAN VERDICT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, via The Hague and London,
Nov. 27.—The Cologne Gazette, commenting today on a newspaper dispatch dealing with the renewed peace
talk, writes:

"It is premature to talk about peace
and it strikes us as frivolous. No German diplomat and no German soldier thinks of concluding an illusory
peace with the powers which we have beaten and confidently hope to continue beating."

"In Germany everybody from the

mined to make a clean score this time.
Talk in England about peace is a bluff."

ST. PAUL AND I. C. INTERSECT AT DILL

St. Paul and I. C. Railroads Ordered by State Railroad Commission to Re-build Connecting Tracks.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—Upon complaint of C. C. Gratiot of Dill, Green county, the railroad commission has ordered the Illinois Central and the Milwaukee roads to construct an intersecting track between their lines at Dill. The commission fixed the high water marks for the Red Lake reservoir, operated by the Chippewa
and Flambeau improvement company.
In another decision it ordered the Northwestern road to stop two trains
at Devil's lake during the summer season. Complaint was made by W.
G. Bissell of Lodi and others.

Along the Franco-Belgian line nothing is reported, but it is indicated
that the Germans have started the expected resumption of their effort to break

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Frankfurt, Nov. 27.—A telegram received from the headquarters of the crown prince by the Deutsche Arme-blatt requesting the procuring of rum
for the troops at the front has caused inquiries to be made as to whether the army chiefs had altered the principles
heretofore observed regarding the use of alcoholic beverages by the troops.
In reply to an inquiry addressed by the chairman of the German Society for the Prevention of the Intemperate
Use of Alcoholic Drinks, Dr. von Strauss Torney to his imperial highness the crown prince, the latter forwarded the following message to be forwarded:

WILSON ON GUARD PENS AMBASSADORS ON AERIAL ATTACK

Federal Representatives Notified Regarding Unfortified Cities and Noncombatants.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 27.—President
Wilson has communicated officially to the diplomatic representatives of the United States in the belligerent countries of Europe, his disapproval
of attacks by bombs from aircraft
dropped on unfortified cities occupied by noncombatants.

The president was careful not to take the matter up officially and did not even make his communication through the state department, but personally addressed the American ambassadors abroad.

Just how the American diplomats abroad were to convey President Wilson's feeling in the matter to the foreign government has not been disclosed. Whether there have been any unofficial responses from the belligerents was not known here today,
but American diplomats instructed by the president, it is understood, are to handle the matter with such discretion and delicacy as would tend to end aerial attacks without notice
and at the same time preserve friendship which the United States feels toward all the belligerents involved.

It is not believed that the president mentioned any specific violation, but expressed his view on the general subject of aerial attacks.

ENGLAND'S WAR LOAN IS EASILY SECURED

People Subscribe Liberally and Total
Passes All Expectations, Lloyd George Tells Commons.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, Nov. 27.—David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer,
announced in the house of commons
today that the war loan of 350,000,000 pounds sterling ($1,750,000,000) has been greatly over subscribed. The chancellor gave no figures. He said, however, that a feature of the loan
was the enormous number of individuals, totalling nearly 100,000, who had made applications for small sums.

These, the chancellor declared, would receive the first allotments.

In the course of a statement concerning financial conditions in the country the chancellor said the financial deadlock which followed the outbreak of the war was due to inability to collect outstanding debts abroad.

As an instance Mr. Lloyd-George referred to the United States, which he said owed Great Britain about a thousand millions sterling $5,000,000,000.

LIMIT QUARANTINE SECTIONS OF STATE

Plan to Remove Restrictions on Livestock Movement in Certain Parts of Wisconsin.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—The removal of some of the restrictions imposed as the result of the discovery of the foot-and-mouth disease in the state was the result of a conference held between the federal officials and the live stock sanitary board here. It is decided that two quarantine districts will be established. One will be composed of several counties in southern Wisconsin and the other of two counties in the northern part of the state, Lincoln and Langlade.

The status to be thus established will be continued for at least one month,
and possibly for two or three months
if further outbreaks in the prescribed territory are discovered.

The proposition of the conference
was approved by the federal authorities at Washington. The districts will be established by an executive proclamation, which will define the limits of the territory and the terms of the quarantine. Inasmuch as the proposition was approved by the federal officials at the conference there seems to be little doubt over the endorsement of the federal government.

Since the killing of 145 head of cattle at Oregon to further infection had been reported in Dane county, but this county will be made a part of the first prescribed district area, which will be composed of Dane, Milwaukee, Jefferson, Racine, Green, Rock, Walworth, Kenosha and Waukesha counties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 27.—The Turkish commander of the forts at Smyrna lays
all the responsibility for the firing
upon the cruiser Tennessee's launch
"to the indifference of the helmsman
of the launch," who it is said did not warn of the presence of mines.

Secretary Bryan today issued a sup-

slight rifle wound in his left arm until he could bear the pain no longer,
Charles Magnuson, a west Duluth
young man, whose home was found in a shack on Lake Duluth near Dismal lake, Minn., Wednesday night, turned the rifle on himself and committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head, according to the finding today of Coroner J. H. Crowe of Virginia, Minn., after an inquest. The accident and the suicide are supposed to have happened some time during Monday night.

HEALTH EXHIBITION AND CONVENTION OPEN TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 27.—Health officers of the South joined hands today to better the health of the Southern people. One step was to open the Southern Health Exhibition. The other was the convention convening of the forty-second annual meeting
of the American Public Health Association.

The exhibition was the most elaborate one that southern health officers have ever gotten together under one roof. Every phase of health conservative work was covered, including rural sanitation, typhoid, hookworm
and tuberculosis preventative measures. An exhibition expert who was engaged to superintend the work
had everything in perfect order. It will be kept open until December 6.
Attending the convention of the Public Health Association were the leading sanitary engineers and physicians in the United States, Canada,
Mexico and Cuba.

United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 27.—Determined to reduce the effect of the European war on the trade of Pan-American countries the principal nations of South America are endeavoring. It was disclosed today, to secure the co-operation of the United States in a movement that would bring about an agreement with the belligerent powers of Europe to withdraw their warships
from the neutral waters of the two Americas. Extension of the territorial waters of a neutral country from the present limits of three miles to much larger limits that would permit
an unimpeded coastwise trade between the two Americas the calling of general conference of diplomatic representatives of the 21 republics of this hemisphere and prohibitions
which would make it impossible for warships to sustain themselves with coal or supplies in neutral waters, are among the suggestions which have been formerly communicated to the United States government for consideration.

FRENCH COUNTESS RAISES MONEY FOR SOLDIERS' COMFORTS

Countess Dumas of Paris is in Washington, where she has arranged for a benefit at a local theater to raise money for the aid of the French soldiers in the trenches at the front. Her mission is to obtain practical comforts and necessities
for her fellow countrymen who face
a terrible winter in the trenches in northern France and Belgium.
Washington society is taking a lively

ISSUE STATEMENTS ON 'PHONE SERVICE

Managers of Local Telephone Exchanges are Confident That Public Will be Well Served.

In a statement made today by District Manager Cash of the Wisconsin Telephone Company, he said: "The physical connection between the telephone systems of the Wisconsin Telephone Company and the Rock County Telephone Company was made today. This connection will permit local subscribers of either one of the companies to talk with the subscribers of the other company, and will further permit the subscribers of either one of the companies to connect with the toll lines of the other company within the State of Wisconsin. The charges for such connections are as follows:

For local connections, 5c; for toll connections, for calls within 50 miles, 5c; for calls between 50 and 100 miles, 10c; for calls beyond 100 miles, 15c. "The question as to whether or not such a connection is a proper arrangement, and does justice to either one or both of the companies involved, is now being considered by the courts. Such consideration will necessarily involve considerable time before its final determination, and, therefore, pending such determination, the Wisconsin Telephone Company will carry out the arrangement, and make it as possible, and will make every effort to handle promptly and satisfactorily, all calls from its subscribers to those of the Rock County Company, or from those of the Rock County Company to those of the Wisconsin Company's subscribers, or toll lines. "The Rock County company will do all in its power to make the physical connection service a success," said Richard, general manager of the Rock County Telephone Company. "The equipment provided is sufficient and there is no reason why the vest of service should not be given. While there are some phases of the arrangement that do not seem just in every respect, we are hopeful that all difficulties may eventually adjust to the satisfaction of all concerned."

FAMOUS VIOLINIST HERE FOR RECITAL

Signor Antonio De Grassi Will Play at Apollo Club Concert on Saturday Evening.

Members of the Apollo Club will enjoy a delightful recital Saturday evening at Library Hall, when the program will be furnished by Signor Antonio De Grassi, one of the world's great violinists, and Madam De Grassi, soprano soloist. J. Francis Connors of this city will be the accompanist.

Signor De Grassi is said to be the equal of Kreisler or Kubelik and plays with the rare skill of a master artist. He has been greeted with enthusiastic audiences and received much praise at the music centers of both Europe and America. Madam De Grassi has spent years of training in Europe and has a beautiful voice well fitted for concert work. Mr. Connors needs no introduction to Janesville people, who take pride in his achievements in the musical world. The management of the Apollo club calls attention to the date for this concert, Saturday evening, Nov. 28, instead of the usual Monday night date.

YOUNG MEN IN FISTIC ENCOUNTER BREAK DOOR WINDOW AT MASON'S HALL

Several Janesville youths, said to be under the influence of too much wine, were arrested Saturday night when they were seen in a titanic bout on South Main street in the entrance of the Masonic Temple, about eight o'clock last evening. A free-for-all resulted and one of the youths was knocked into the window shattering the glass. The crowd was dispersed by the police and the fighters given a merry chase.

TWO GIRLS ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FROM BELOIT HOME ON WEDNESDAY

Ethel Brooks, age 19 years, and Hazel Williams, age 17 years, were taken into custody by the Janesville police Wednesday evening as they left the six o'clock interurban car at the crossing on Court street, preventing their escape from Beloit. The girls told the police that they were inmates of the Milwaukee school of correction and had been sent to a home in Beloit to work out their sentence. They alleged ill treatment in the way of being allowed no liberties, caused them to attempt to escape, and Wednesday afternoon they started back to their homes, leaving on the five o'clock interurban car. One of the girls climbed out of the second story window, using a bed sheet for a rope, but their escape was noticed shortly afterwards.

A phone message to Chief Champion resulted in their capture, and they were taken back to Beloit later in the evening.

The pair told the police they were not allowed to let anyone know that they were working in Beloit, and even had to address their mail to the Milwaukee school, where it would be forwarded to the parents. Miss Brooks is from Baraboo and the Mitchell girls' home is in Indiana.

BARRETT DELIVERS INSPIRING MESSAGE

"A Great Thanksgiving Table Question," Theme for Address Thursday Evening.

Evangelist Charles F. Barrett spoke at the Methodist church last evening on "A Great Thanksgiving Table Question," taking for his text Mark 14:19, "Lord, is it I?" Miss Barrett sang "Oakknoss," "Lord, is it I?" a fitting complement to the evangelist's message. The audience nearly filled the spacious auditorium, as these meetings are beginning to attract general attention. After referring to the general happiness of this Thanksgiving day with its special feasting, the speaker turned their attention to the Last Supper, and the ceremony which Jesus inaugurated.

Some Barrettsisms: "There is no better place than a communion table, which speaks of intimate fellowship with Jesus, to show selfish man the loneliness of sin." "What did Jesus say for?" "World, with all the money he wanted. Thirty years as leading man of the world with all it could buy? Thirty armies, with which to become a world conqueror? Thirty fleets of war vessels? Thirty stars to reign over twenty centuries of power, to rule absolute king of Hell's burning throne? No; thirty shillings."

No one said, "Lord, is it Judas?" They never suspected Judas until the last.

"When a man gets to the place where he has a dogged determination to do the wrong thing, knowing it to be wrong, he is a devil, and, wherever he is, he is hell."

Mr. Barrett will speak tonight on "What This Church Needs."

WHO LOST TWO NICE BIG JUICY TURKEYS?

Dennis Barry Found Them and Don't Know Whether to Eat Them Himself or Not. At least somebody who contemplated on a big dinner of turkey yesterday missed their birds. It must have been intended that the repeat should be considered in an affair with no small number of guests present for two twenty-five pounders were selected for the occasion. Anyway the birds selected did not grace the table of the intended housewife.

Today the two houses repose among the ice and cream tubs in the ice chest at the cigar store of D. J. Barry on West Milwaukee street. And furthermore they have reposed there since Tuesday night, with nobody showing up to claim their property. And turkeys twenty-eight cents a pound!

Mr. Barry found the turkeys Tuesday night as he was locking the store. They were left in a light sugar sack enclosed in a gunny sack by a gentleman who purchased a cigar and left soon afterwards. He has so far failed to return for the birds. Meanwhile the proprietor does not know whether to enjoy his find or not.

MURPHY-JUNGBLUT WEDDING THURSDAY

Miss Stella E. Murphy and Frederick D. Jungblut Take Marriage Vows Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Stella E. Murphy and Frederick D. Jungblut were united in marriage at seven-thirty o'clock Thursday morning at St. Mary's church, the Rev. W. A. Goebel reading the service. Miss Gertrude Murphy, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and George Jungblut, the groom's brother, was groomsmen. The bride was attired in a brown serge suit and her attendant wore green broadcloth.

A four course wedding breakfast was served to forty or more guests at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Murphy, after which Mr. and Mrs. Jungblut left on their wedding journey. They will reside at 945 Glen street upon their return.

Mr. Jungblut is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jungblut, and is employed as foreman at the Troy laundry.

FRIENDS HAVE SURPRISE ON MRS. ANNA BALLENTINE

Mrs. Anna Ballentine, 1128 Grand avenue, was pleasantly surprised by her friends last evening, it being her birthday anniversary. Cards were introduced by the first prize, were captured by Mrs. Alice Blumreich and William Ballentine, and the consolation was awarded to Miss Mabel Blumreich and Walter Blumreich. At midnight a delicious luncheon was served after which the party broke up wishing Mrs. Ballentine many more happy birthdays.

HUNTERS GET FINE DEER BLACK BEAR AND A CUB

What constituted the largest shipment of deer through Janesville in the present hunting season arrived here this morning. In the lot were four excellent deer, a 300-pound black bear and a cub weighing about 75 pounds. The animals were all shot by hunters who live west of the city. Near Hayward they reported sixty hunters to the square mile, but at the time they left no fatality had occurred in that vicinity.

MEAT BONE PIERCES FOOT OF RAILROAD BRAKEMAN

C. H. Graham of North Pond du Lac, a Chicago and Northwestern railway brakeman, suffered a bad injury while helping in the unloading of a meat car here Wednesday. A quarter of beef from a meat hook fell, the bone striking Graham's foot and piercing it to the extent that a physician's attendance was necessary.

NEWS OF ACCIDENT WRECKING WARSHIP TOLD IN BULLETINS

Janesville Received Prompt Information in Regard to Destruction of British Cruiser.

Although there was no issue of the Gazette on Thursday the Janesville public was promptly informed of the terrible disaster to the British cruiser Bulwark through the Gazette's bulletin service which was given both morning and afternoon. In addition there were other important dispatches covering in substance the day's developments in the European war. The news was received through the Associated Press which furnishes the report and which has supplied the Sunday war bulletins. Following are the more important dispatches which were distributed from this office on Thursday:

English Warship Blown Up.
London, Nov. 26.—The English cruiser Bulwark was totally destroyed at Sheerness, thirty miles east of London, by an explosion caused during the loading of ammunition.

Between eight and a hundred men comprising crew and officers, were lost, but twelve survivors being rescued. The force of the explosion wrecked many houses and the vessel was literally blown to bits. When the accident happened the ship's band was playing on the deck. The boat was suddenly seen to rise out of the water, a cloud of smoke blotted it from view and when it cleared away the ship had vanished. The admiral's state the accident occurred in the ammunition room, due to careless handling of highly explosive shells which were being loaded.

Petrograd, Nov. 26.—The war department announces the greatest victory over the Germans in Poland, in which a heavy loss was inflicted upon the German army.

RELEASE TWO MEN WHO ASSAULTED MAN WEDNESDAY EVENING

John Madsen and Tony Torsch of Milwaukee were released by Chief of Police Champion this morning, although the two men are alleged to have committed an assault on Theodore Hiller, Wednesday evening.

Torsch and Madsen were released against the two men and a Judge Maxfield is still confined to his home with illness, the police were forced to allow them their liberty. The report received by the police was that Madsen and Torsch entered an overcoat to Hiller for small sum. Hiller accused the pair of stealing the coat and, it is alleged, the two slugged him. Chief Champion an hour later came across the pair paying too close attention to their conversation on North Main street. He did not know of the assault on Hiller but decided the men would be safer behind the bars than on the street.

Madsen and Torsch were told to leave town in an hour's time this morning. Three men enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner at the city hall police station yesterday. Besides Madsen and Torsch, George "Dummy" Sullivan was the third member. He was released this morning.

ENTERTAINED YESTERDAY AT THANKSGIVING DINNER

Among the elaborate dinners given on Thanksgiving was the one given by Mr. and Mrs. James Zanias of Cherry street. Covers were laid for sixteen guests and the centerpiece was a beautiful combination of flowers and fruit combined. Each guest was presented with small keyholes and a corsage bouquet of violets. Candles of yellow shades lighted the table. During the dinner, of six courses, a violinist and pianist played several selections. The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Torsen, George "Dummy" Sullivan, Little of Pond du Lac, Dr. and Mrs. Loofboro of Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Davis of Minneapolis, Mrs. Sara Carman, Miss Alma Mills and Fred Martin. A musical program was given in the evening.

POSEY WILLIAMS CANNED BY BOXING COMMISSION

There will be no boxing match between Posey Williams and the monarch of Jones Island, and Posey Williams, who gained a decision over Scotty last week in Milwaukee. At least there will be no re-matching of the pair, until December seventh when Williams comes before the state boxing commission to explain why he did not weigh-in for the bout last Monday as required by the state laws.

On Wednesday Williams was suspended by the commission for the violation, as it was claimed he was ten or twelve pounds over weight, the limit being 124 pounds, as specified in the signing papers.

SIXTY COUPLES AT GOLF CLUB PARTY

Annual Dance at Assembly Hall Last Evening Was Attended by Compilation of New and Old Gilders.

The new and latest dances, mixed with the good old-fashioned two-step and waltz, marked the success of the annual Golf club party held last evening at the Assembly hall. The waltz and two-step was always welcome, but the sixty couples that attended found the new fox trot, half-and-half, Maxixe and dream waltz steps none too difficult, and after ten o'clock were found mastering the new glides along with dancing the two more familiar hops.

The hall was substantially decorated, and the weather ideal. Conditions for a dance were never so favorable. The gentlemen present appeared in full dress. At twelve o'clock light refreshments were served. The dancers left at three for their homes, inspired with having mastered the new glides along with dancing the two more familiar hops.

Krell's five piece orchestra from Chicago, including the piano, violin, banjo, cornet and traps, rendered excellent inspiration for the dancers, and answered may encores during the evening.

ENTERTAINED ON TUESDAY FOR RETURNED NEWLYWEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Darby Coen of La Prairie, entertained Tuesday evening in honor of their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. Coen, who have just returned from their wedding trip. KOBER PULLS IOWA STUNT ON JUNIORS; SOPHS ARE CHAMPS

Second Year Captain Races 60 Yards
For Lone Score of Game in Last Minute of Play Wednesday.

"Bully" Kober, diminutive quarter-back and captain of the sophomore football eleven, won the school championship for his class on last Wednesday afternoon in the final clash with the juniors for the school supremacy at the fair grounds, 7 to 0, when he brilliantly pulled off the same stunt that helped Iowa University to down Northwestern earlier in the fall. This is how he did it:

After almost four quarters had been played, with neither side having scored, Kober realized that there was but one minute to play and that another game would have to be played if his team did not score in that closing minute. Like a flash he called a signal, and as the ball was passed from the center to him, every man in the line knowing the trick play to come, stood up ready to protect every soiled member claiming that the juniors held and should be penalized fifteen yards. Kober walked over to Referee Curtis with the ball in his arms and demanded that the fifteen yards be given him. Curtis refused, and Kober said, "Well, we will take it anyway." He walked slowly for fifteen yards through the entire junior team, and when he had passed them safely he started to tear down the field. McDermott, the junior quarter, was the only obstacle between him and the goal line. Clever dodging, and he was past his rival like a flash. He reached the goal line in safety, and then kicked the goal, scoring the seven points for his team and winning the title of the school in the last minute of play. Time was called when he was tearing down the field. There was no sidestepping the rules by "Bully" for his feat was perfectly legal.

The sophs had seven men on the line of scrimmage when the ball was snapped, so no rule was disobeyed there. Kober kept moving when he had the ball, which followed the dead ball rule exactly. The touchdown was a legal one, with the credit all going to Kober.

Referee Curtis was informed before the game that this stunt would probably be executed, providing it was necessary. The juniors were baffled by a marked man. This little star had performed brilliantly all during the struggle, and while the juniors ruled favorites before the game, the sophs outplayed them in many departments of play. The first three quarters and

The biggest battle (financially) that promoter Jimmy Coffroth ever handled was the Corbett-Jeffries bout of 1903. It drew a $62,000 house. And the most difficult match he ever arranged, says, was the Britt-Nelson battle of 1905, which drew a $48,000 house. This contest developed into a three-cornered wrangle between promoter Coffroth and Willie Britt, Jimmie's manager, and Billy Nelson, Coffroth's handler of Battling Nelson, that has become pugilistic history. This Britt-Nelson battle was the first bout ever staged in an open-air arena and it was the first contest that was ever "flooded" by the movies. The pictures were shown all over the world.

Tommy McCarthy and Jim Savage, heavyweights, violated the New York state boxing law by fighting an encounter at the conclusion of a recent 10-round bout in Gotham. When McCarthy offered to shake hands at the end of the fight Savage belted him on the jaw. Savage then woke up and offered his mitts, but McCarthy hauled off and walloped him.

Ora Morningstar, one of the world's most brilliant players of the form, was uncertain for many years as to the profession he would choose. It was a tossup between billiards and painting, and his inclination was decidedly toward the artistic career. The result has been somewhat of a compromise, for while Morningstar is famous as a billiard player he is also wedded to painting. It was by chance that Morningstar became a billiard player. Early in life he obtained employment in the billiard hall of Maurice Daly, in New York. Being thrown into such close association with the game, he developed an unusual ability with the cue and attracted wide attention in New York. He was soon recognized as championship caliber and more than once has held the 18.1 and 18.2 titles of the billiard game. During the 14.1 billiard championship tournament held at the Astor hotel, New York, in April, Morningstar proved to be one of the most consistent contenders. His open table play has made him a master of the new style game 14.1, and judging from his past performance he should annex the championship this season.

As a lightweight champion Freddy Welsh has been very much to the Fritz. Since whipping Bill Ekhart and acquiring the prize the Englishman has mingled in ring doings with Matty Baldwin, Ad Volgaat, Charley White and Jimmy Duffy; and he hasn't added anything to his reputation by what he did in these contests. Baldwin the champion defeated, but Matty is broken down and a has-been. And at that Welsh had no wonderful margin at the end, though he can be excused for this as he hadn't fought in months. Volgaat made a dandy showing until a broken arm rendered him helpless and Manager Tom Jones was compelled to toss in the sponge. Against White the champion came in pounds overweight and the Chicagoan was credited with a draw, a victory and a defeat. A draw seems to have been the proper verdict. And at Buffalo the other night the champion, down to 156½ pounds, showed nothing particularly classy against Duffy. The Lockport wizard did much of the aggressive work and at the end was given the shade by some of the papers, while others thought the champion deserved an even break. It's up to Welsh to deliver the goods by landing a few victories if he is to continue to continue to demand big money for his services.

The trouble with Princeton this year has been the trouble with Yale in the past. Princeton was over-coached. The players received so much advice that they didn't know which coach to follow. When they got in a pinch they were undecided. Being told to do one thing in five different ways by five different men will disconcert any athlete.

ARMY-NAVY GAME WILL CLOSE GRIDIRON YEAR

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Nov. 27.—Heavy engagements and tight games will close the gridiron of the nation's will cease tomorrow with the Army-Navy conflict at Philadelphia. There will be a few rear-guard actions and some desultory skirmishes of minor importance probably as late as Christmas day, but it will be purely of the guerilla variety. The big amnesty, truce, cessation—whatever you will—among the organized knights of the pig-skin is set to begin when the referee's whistle concludes the clash between the two branches of Uncle Sam's war dogs.

The 1914 season has been one of the best the football games has ever known. There has been a decided trend toward the open game that laid away from the old mass formations that built about brawn instead of brain. Another step in the right direction is the growing tendency of football's generals to further favor the public has adopted the system. It is up to Yale and Harvard to bow to the inevitable.

FOOTBALL ELEVEN AT BANQUET ON WEDNESDAY

Members of the high school football eleven and their lady friends enjoyed a delicious banquet on Wednesday evening at the high school recreation room in honor of the individual members of the squad, who worked hard the past season, despite their poor record. Short talks by several members of the team and some of the whiffles, tossed the evening's entertainment at any early hour.

MUSICAL FUN SHOW MAKES HIT AT MYERS

The New Show "One Girl in a Million" Contains Lively Comedy, Pretty Music and Interesting Plot.

A packed house greeted the new show "One Girl in a Million" at Myers Theatre Wednesday afternoon and evening and enjoyed the clean and plentiful comedy and the several cleverly constructed dramatic situations. Besides the singing and dancing there was a plot which ran along something like this:

Mrs. Van Allen Blakely, who has money to burn, and a palatial villa on the Hudson is giving a house party. One of her guests, her sister-in-law—this is the widow—hasn't enough money to pay some very pressing creditors. But the two heiress orphans and their guardian are coming to the party, and the widow with her creditors, get up a conspiracy to marry one of these girls to a candidate of her own selection and get a rake-off when the plot succeeds. Highbrow Jimmy, who, by virtue of an intercepted telegram, is impersonating the guest of honor, overhears the plot and makes the widow put him in as candidate. The guardian colonel, being more intelligent than most musical comedy colonels and suspicious of fortune hunters, devises the ingenious fiction that one of his wards was her father's favorite and is to inherit the whole fortune. But he declines to tell which one. Also, in order further to confound the matrimonially mercenary, there is a necklace belonging to the sisters, and a rumor among the guests that the one who wears it is the heiress. As they wear it turn and turn about this leads to complications and causes Jimmy to receive constant and contradictory reports from headquarters as to which of them he is to make love to.

He cuts the gordian knot by stealing the necklace. But, under ennobling influence of having fallen in love with Marie, and because suspicion of the crime has fallen as of course it would, upon the harmless, necessary, juvenile, who has fallen in love with Louise, the other daughter, he returns it ingeniously to the colonel's pocket.

There are a lot more complications after this, including the appearance of the guest Jimmy is impersonating and the frustration, by Jimmy, of "Burnie the Badger's" attempt to steal the necklace for himself. But in the end Jimmy confesses his crime to Marie, and it comes out that he has been more sinned against than sinning after all. Marie forgives him very prettily, her guardian concurring.

"Burnie the Badger" is thrown out of the window, Harry and Louise are forgiven for having eloped—at least they meant to elope, but missed the boat—and the chorus comes prancing in for the finale.

Felix Adler, who is the leading actor comedian is clever in the extreme as "Highbrow Jimmy." Miss Leonore Novas and Eva Fullon are dainty and petite as the two daughters. Around the three the entire play hinges. The chorus was a delight to the eye, large and pretty, the scenery and costumes superb.

VAUDEVILLE PLEASES AUDIENCES AT MYERS

Special Thanksgiving Matinee and Evening Performances Play to Capacity Houses.

There is no doubt about it—a good attraction will pull like a magnet. This may be evidenced by the two capacity houses which greeted the new vaudeville bill at the Myers theatre yesterday. William Seibin and Grovini-Jeanette start off the bill in a rapid-fire juggling, balancing, bicycle-riding and gymnastic act in which there is something doing all the time. Carlisle and Romer are singers and instrumentalists of no mean order. Willie Zimmermann, who has been much heralded as "The Man of the Hour," presented impersonations of the great war leaders of Europe and gave some characterizations of well known characters, appearing in excellent delineations of John Phillip Sousa, the March King, and Oscar Hammerstein, the grand opera magnate.

In addition to the present bill the fourteenth episode in "The Trey o' Hearts" will be shown tonight.

PURITANS WON CHASE FROM THE REDSKINS

Pilgrim Youngsters Annex Twelve More Scalps Than Do Indians—Boys Showed Great Spirit.

The Puritans claim an easy victory over their redskin rivals by annexing twelve more scalps to their credit than did the Indians. The chase, which was held by the Y. M. C. A. juniors, divided into two divisions, with about fifteen on each side, was thoroughly appreciated by the youngsters, as shown by the happy attitude they took both before and after the chase.

The Puritans, in order to win a scalp, had to locate an Indian and get to him before the redskin saw him. Then a few pats on the Indian's back by the Pilgrim would mean that the redskin give up the twenty-five kernels of corn which he had with him. The Indians obtained a few scalps, but the victory went to the Puritans by twelve scalps or three hundred kernels of corn.

At nine o'clock the juniors assembled at the Y. M. C. A. lobby and were given their instructions. The corn was then given them, after which they posed for a picture, taken outside of the building. The Indians were taken by their leader, Merrill Nowlan, and an assistant to the corner of South Jackson street and Western avenue, while the Puritans were ordered to the corner of Center street and Western avenue by their leader, Capt. John Smith, or Leo Powers. Here the chase commenced. At eleven o'clock the youths returned to the building and the corn was counted on both sides. When the winning side was named, a peace treaty was signed by Capt. John Smith and Chief Sitting Bull. The event in all was an enjoyment for the juniors preliminary to their Turkey Day dinner, and it is needless to say that they had a lot of fun out of the chase.

Had It Figured Out.
The attention of the tourist in northern France was attracted to the following notice: "Pasture your horses here. Short-tailed horses, fifteen cents a day." On inquiring about the difference of price, the farmer remarked that anyone ought to know that, and explained that a short-tailed horse, had to chase the flies with his head, and while he did so he could not eat, while a long tailed one, not being thus handicapped, naturally ate a great deal more.

THE CHEMIST REPORTS TO THE GOOD JUDGE.

LASTING pleasure—a chance word from a "Right-Cut" user has brought many a man the comfort of the Real Tobacco Chew.

"Right-Cut" satisfies you better and lasts longer than the old kind. The taste of rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away, then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

derstand the spirit that guided Italy's destinies in the past.

"The Italian people understand that the present war is, in greater part, between the military imperialism of Germany, which seems to impose itself

upon the entire world, and the liberal nationalism of Europe, that defends

this point of view young and democratic Italy cannot and will not be affiliated with the pan-Germanic eagle.

"Great Britain, which knows the Italians, cannot doubt their sentiments. In the hour of grave decision

the eyes of Italy will be fixed upon

London, because we believe that only

there can we find sincere friends at a time that is grave with danger for our destinies, because no Italian will ever consent to take up arms against England.

"But it is important," says the writer in conclusion, "that Great Britain should know Italy's views of the future. We have no illusions as to the danger that is facing us, due

to our having assumed an isolated position, which for many reasons of the European political situation it is difficult to abandon. Whether the triple alliance be politically, if not materially, dissolved; whether the triple entente will be more firmly cemented as the result of this war, we are resolved

now and for the future to remain in isolation."

HERE IS A JOKE.

Editor W. D. Hoard of the Jefferson

County Union, who by the way is an ex-governor of the great state of Wisconsin and also a former member of the state board of university regents,

discusses President Van Hise, and his statement that the University of Wisconsin is not in politics. Our beloved

ex-governor knows whereof he talks.

He resigned from the state university

regents because he could no longer

"snooze" the way things were run

in that institution, and he says with rare judgment:

"Dr. Van Hise is a great man to venture where 'angels dare not tread' for the reason that the angels are truth-

ful. The doctor is a master at denial of patent facts and now says that the university has not meddled with politics. He calls for a specific instance.

Well, he was appointed through the influence of Robert M. La Follette and every regent from that time till now,

who has had eyes, could see that he was a man who went against the

La Follette propaganda. Next, he has been the boss lobbyist before the legislature. He was always opposed to the legislative committee of the regents

handling such affairs. He wanted it for himself. Next, it was clearly understood, by all who had any knowledge of the situation, that Van Hise

was cheek by jowl with McGovern in influencing the appointment of regents

and the retiring of those regents that he could not manage. Ask Swenson,

and Thwaites, and Norcross what they think about his 'pernicious activity.'

Then again, there was a regular campaign organized to defeat State Superintendent Cary and it was plainly seen

that this campaign was carried on and managed by university influence.

There was no mourner in the field

more grief-stricken over the result

than Van Hise and his pals when it was found that the people did not

relish such prostitution of state school

influence.

"Van Hise is an adept at hiding his tracks. For that reason he should not be retained at the head of the institution. He has left an impression with the former regents of such thorough

disingenuousness that it renders him

unfit for public confidence. It is to laugh, and that with ill concealed

A FLOOD OF MONEY FOR THE SOUTH.

By George H. Benedict.

The beneficent effects of the $135-

400,000 cotton pool, for which the needed funds were all subscribed several days ago, will be felt all over the South before Christmas, and the rest of the country generally will be the

gainer through the release of more money into circulation.

Let us take the case of a suppo-

sitioned southern planter to show how the loan fund is to be handled.

George Brown has fifty bales of cotton he has produced during the season

just ended. Each bale weighs about 500 pounds, so he has about 25,000

pounds. Without the war he is expected to sell his crop at ten cents a pound,

realizing $2,500 for his year's work.

Like so many other planters, Brown

has depended almost entirely upon his

cotton, and has accordingly saved some money on his expectations. He has also planned to live another year on the fruits of his sale. Selling for any price much below ten cents means loss

and disaster to him.

The war broke out, cotton exchanges

and markets closed, and the planter

was in a fix. In September it became possible to sell some cotton at prices

lower than seven cents a pound. The price today is slightly above seven cents.

Brown, anxious to get a living price,

cans of oysters and scraping the rust

off the top of the kitchen range. What is home without an axe? It is like a ship without a rudder or a peacock

without a tail. No man can ever tell

—just as indispensable as the chimney on the house. While we are minus an axe, look at the bill collectors and life insurance solicitors can

call with impunity or without it just as they like. We also used our axe to peel onions, open claims, crack ice,

break sand, and turn turn-

over, so the reader can readily understand our great loss. Will the gentleman who stole our axe please return it by Saturday, as the man who collects the installment on our photograph calls that day, and we are desirous of coming to an amicable agreement with him, which we are sure we can do if we have the axe.

Miss Euphemia Judge, our poetess

of passion, has given up writing poetry

for Doc Blake's medicine advertisements, as Doc made her take her pay

in medicine, which is also good for various polishes. This is a bad case

and some of it around town for that purpose, but decided it wasn't no way to get rich quick and returned to her old position as second cook at the Hutzel.

The American Mule's Lament.

Whenever nations go to war,

At once they think of me;

They send their buyers from afar

And take me o'er the sea.

They make me pull their wagon loads

Amid the shot and shell.

And if I balk, a soldier goads

Me in the flank like—everything.

What do I care for England, of

For France or Germany?

And what should I be fighting for

Where I've no sympathy?

I'm kicking to get home again

On old Missouri's soil.

Where I can live at peace with men

And feed well for my toil.

Trouble Amidships.

ITALIAN INSTANTLY KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT AT NOON

Nichola Partipelo, Age Nineteen Years, Bleeds To Death When Contents of Shell Pierces Neck

Rock County's first fatal hunting accident occurred a few minutes after twelve o'clock today, when Nichola Partipelo, an Italian nineteen years of age, was instantly killed when a shot gun slipped from his hands, struck his head, and the contents of a heavily loaded shell into the right side of his neck. The shot severed nearly every artery in the young man's neck and he died in a few minutes.

Partipelo was sitting with another Italian named Jim Stagavechia, on a pile of timbers, at the extreme end of the Chicago Mill and Lumber Co. railroad, on the line near what is called the "West Switch". The two had been hunting and on returning seated themselves on the timbers to rest. Partipelo was smoking a cigarette and had his shot gun, a single barreled cheap affair, resting over one of his knees with the stock on the edge of the log.

When his companion fell back, bleeding profusely, Stagavechia was horrified but ran and gave the alarm to St. Paul passenger station. The officials at St. Paul passenger station were notified and the police were called. Patrolman Harry Smith, summing up the accident, said that in his company went to the scene of the accident. Nearly all the section employees were gathered about the dead body mourning the youth's demise. The father of the deceased, who was declared dead, was a matter of a few moments after the explosion of the gun for all the blood vessels of the throat were torn and so great was the force of the shot, the young man's neck was blown to bits and parts of the cloth were found a hundred feet from the pile of timbers. The body was removed to Rock County hospital and Partipelo came to America with four young men, last year from Bari, Italy. Stagavechia was one of the quartet who immigrated here. All four came to Janesville to work on the railroad early this spring and have made their home in the bunk cars near Pearl street. Partipelo had been working for the railroad during the summer months, but had not been employed for some time. It is said he has relatives in the old country, who will be notified today by his fellow countrymen. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

FAMILY LOYALTY.

"THERE'S one thing I simply cannot understand about Gertrude," said a neighbor of mine, "regard to a mutual friend. 'She is such a clever, clear-sighted person about most things, and yet she can't seem to see any fault in that silly, selfish little sister of hers.'"

"How do you know she can't?"

"Because you can never get her to say a word against her. You know what close friends we are? Well, Gertrude will say almost anything to me, but never a word of complaint about Lucile, no matter what she does. And yet she knows that I can't help knowing about some of Lucile's performances."

I could not help smiling inwardly at my neighbor's surprise. No wonder she couldn't understand the family loyalty that soiled Gertrude's lips, for she hasn't an iota of it herself and thinks nothing of criticizing her sister or brother, her father and even her mother, to outsiders, with a freedom that to ears used to residence on such matters is fairly appalling.

"I never was one of those people who cannot see a fault in those they love," she often says with evident pride. "I can see my family's faults and I love them in spite of those faults, not because I'm blind to them."

Apparently the happy medium of being able to see the faults of those one loves is unquestionably wrong and the latter suffers injustice thereby. I know that many people consider this justifiable, but it does not seem so to me. These same people would exalt patriotism above devotion to the right, and here, again, I cannot follow.

I believe one should shield and help and forgive, and best of all, love the wayward housemate to the last drop of heart's blood, but one should not wrong another to do it and no good will come when one does.

I once knew a girl who had a very trying relative in her immediate family. What that girl suffered from her deprivation, what anxiety, only anyone who has had a similar experience can realize. This girl and I lived together for a year and never in the course of that time did she speak disparagingly of him. There is a fineness in such loyalty that commands one's highest respect. It seems to me that there is one case in which family loyalty can be carried too far, and that is when it makes anyone uphold the housemate against an outsider when the former is unquestionably wrong and the latter suffers injustice thereby. I know that many people consider this justifiable, but it does not seem so to me. These same people would exalt patriotism above devotion to the right, and here, again, I cannot follow.

I believe one should shield and help and forgive, and best of all, love the wayward housemate to the last drop of heart's blood, but one should not wrong another to do it and no good will come when one does.

Heart and Home Problems BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen, and do not keep steady company with any boy. I went with one boy for a year and read every night in your column about it being wrong for a girl to go with just one boy. I followed your advice and find it a great deal better to go with all the boys, and I have much better time.

(1) Is it right for a girl to go with a boy after he has been with another girl? I am a girl of seventeen and have a brother of two years. He does not work, though he is strong and healthy. He stays up late at night, gets up at noon each day and abuses my sister and me. It hurts my mother. She cries and begs him to do better and work, but he says he doesn't have to. I know it is just killing mother. Is there anything we could do to make him work? Please, dear Mrs. Thompson, don't overlook my letter, for I am nearly heartbroken.

SISTER.

Dear little girl, I was deeply touched by your letter and am very anxious to say something to help you. Do you not know some friendly judge, or perhaps some elderly male friend of your family, to whom you could go and tell your trouble? If he would call your brother in and have a good talk with him he might be able to influence him. Almost any man would be willing to help, so do not be afraid to ask. I hope to hear that conditions have improved at your home.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

USEFUL COOKING HINTS.

Left-over biscuits can be made fresh by dipping in water, then place in baking pan in hot oven and left for a few minutes.

When beating eggs for icing, after they have started to froth add one or two tablespoons of cold water and you will have double the quantity of icing.

You can use an ounce and a half of flour instead of cornstarch when you want to.

You want winter wheat flour for pie crusts.

Peanut butter mixed with a little cream or milk will go much farther and be more palatable.

You can use the water the potato is cooked in to make gravy if you haven't milk.

Grate cheese on top of poached eggs; it is pretty as well as good, member that unless you get a piece of paper over top for protection at first a top crust will at once be formed that prevents raising. When cake is well raised remove paper.

Wilted vegetables should be soaked in cold water before being cooked in boiling salted water.

BAGS AS A HOUSEHOLD CONVENIENCE.

Ever try "bags" for things used constantly that must be in clean handy place? They must be made of material easily laundered, with drawing in top; can be kept or hung in closets, behind doors, under draining boards, etc.

For instance, for small children, hang neat bag (containing zephyr slippers in winter) at head of bed; handy and will be used.

Have bag containing "dust rags" in bedroom closet.

Small bag for meat grinder; place small patch-pocket near the top, on inside, for different parts.

If drawer space is limited, have a bag for dish towels.

Keep one in pantry, filled with newspapers, used for dozens of purposes.

Take small salt bag, sew brass ring in a small opening at bottom, place 1-cent ball of string in it with end through the ring; tack to kitchen wall. You will find what it means to you when wanting string in a hurry.

THE TABLE.

Meatless Gravy—Put generous piece of butter in frying pan and when melted rub in one tablespoon flour. In separate pan dissolve (or two, if desired) bouillon cube in boiling water. Add this to butter and flour. Stir to prevent lumps and you will find a more delicious gravy than with baker's for chicken. Boil until strength of the meat in the gravy. It can also take the place of meat in soup.

Flamery—One cup any kind of fruit juice, one cup sugar, white of one egg, pinch of salt, one cup nuts and flavor. Beat well. Set in ice box to cool.

Date Pudding—One pound dates, one cup English walnuts, two eggs well beaten, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon baking powder. Wash dates and steam five minutes. Cut in two and remove seeds and put layer in buttered cake tin, then layer of nuts. Pour batter over and bake twenty minutes. Serve cold with whipped cream. This will serve eight people.

Chocolate Fudge—One cup cream, two cups sugar, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cake chocolate. Boil until thick—about ten or fifteen minutes; when cool, beat and pour into buttered dish to harden.

German Cake—Cream together one-half cup each of sugar and butter and mix with this four eggs, four tablespoons milk. Sift together one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder; stir with the mixture, put batter in two tins. Then beat whites of four eggs with two tablespoons sugar and spread over batter. Sprinkle ground nuts on top and bake till a light brown. Use any kind of filling and frost with plain white frosting.

The Wife's Money BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

She breezed into the living room and dropped into an easy chair, laughing.

"What is it?" asked her sister, smiling in sympathy.

"You know Mrs. Aspry, the soprano in our church? I really believe we are going to get a new one."

"Why do you think so?" asked her sister, smiling in sympathy.

"When the 'remarks' were well under way, in walked Mrs. Aspry, wearing her funeral expression. When she came in, she was closing hymns, she walked forward with her customary assurance. Poor Miss Pierson looked very uncomfortable, but made way for her. If Mrs. Aspry had been wise she never would have sung right after Edith, but she has no idea that anyone else has a voice."

"Mr. Black says many spoke to him at church Sunday about securing Miss Pierson for soprano. When the board had a meeting the subject was brought up, the vote was unanimous in her favor. The secretary was instructed to notify Mrs. Aspry that the board had decided to hire Miss Pierson as soprano for the next year and the meeting adjourned."

"Mr. Snow, the secretary, is a mild and pleasant man and he did not relish his task. His note was a pattern of conciliation, but on sugar coating could make that pill go down easily. Mrs. Aspry sat right down and wrote to the pastor, asking for her church letter, saying she could not worship in a church where a jealous faction was bent on depriving her of her means of livelihood. After all, she so poor as that!"

"Mercy, not! Her husband earns a good living. She meant it would deprive her of her pin money. She has been financially independent so many years, suppose she dreads being reduced to the level of the rest of us married women who must go into the ring and fight for our gowns."

"Poor woman! I am sorry for her. Anyway," was Maud's final word.

"You know old Mr. Deland has been failing for the last two weeks. He was made to have the funeral on Friday. Mrs. Aspry's services had been secured for the occasion, of course. When the time came the friends gathered and the money waited for her to arrive. He finally went to the telephone, called her up and told her the funeral was being held up for some way her presence."

"What do you think she said?" in some way she had mixed up her dates and thought the funeral was the next day. She was just ready to start for a picnic and said, 'I can't get there under half an hour.'

"We can't wait, we must get someone else," said the minister.

"There is no one else," replied Maud, seating herself with her little niece on her lap.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

One of the most effective bleaches to remove traces of stains, such as those left from the removal of ink or of perspiration and oil streaks, and inside of cuffs and collars, is potassium permanganate. It is bought in crystal form and is made up in a solution by using one gram of crystals to one quart of water. This solution is used by dipping the stained article in it, or by using it directly on the stain. It will make a purple stain at first, which, when washed with warm water will turn a dark mahogany brown in color. To remove this color, wash with a few drops of oxalic acid, rinsing thoroughly with warm water. If any of the brown from the permanganate is left in the cloth treat a second time with oxalic acid, remembering to end up with a thorough washing.

The oxalic acid and permanganate are most efficient bleaches because they both are powerful oxidizers. They may be used in removing ink from silk and wool but a yellowish tint is apt to remain. Javelle water is easier and more time saving to use but is so strong that it is not safe on silk or wool, many condemning it entirely for these fabrics.

Chloride of lime, as such, is strong and rapid in its action and is more often used in the form of a prepared bleach. It may be purchased in drug stores but is quickly and cheaply prepared by the housewife. Dissolve one pound of washing soda in one quart of boiling water. To one-half pound of chloride of lime, in another bowl add two quarts of boiling water. When the washing soda is thoroughly dissolved, add it to the bowl containing the chloride of lime. Stir these with a small stick. It will be found on putting these two solutions together that a curdled milk mass results. This, on standing, will disappear. In several hours a white sediment will be found at the bottom and a clear liquid will rise to the top. This liquid is called Javelle water and none of the sediment should be used in the bleaching. Javelle water is really a chlorine bleach. Javelle water will sometimes turn pink on standing, but this in no way is detrimental, but it is best kept in a dark place when not in use.

To remove spots on heavy material Javelle may be used without diluting. Apply it to the spot, let it stand a few moments, then wash with hot water. A second application may be necessary, but as soon as the spot is removed, every trace of the bleach must be washed out. A soap and water wash will be necessary at the end to destroy the odor. Boiling with Javelle is destructive to clothes. For more delicate fibers it may be diluted.

GOWNS FOR LITTLE MAIDS DESCRIBED

Fashion Notes on Children's Clothes by Margaret Mason. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) (By Margaret Mason.)

A cunning frock Dad got for Dot. With other dots strewn o'er it. Her got suit for little Bill. Then got a big bill for it.

New York, Nov. 27.—With their skirts up to their shoe tops and their frocks hanging loose and waistless from their shoulders like a six year old all the big girls seem to be stealing their fashion ideas from the little girls these days. Naturally then it is up to the little girls to be very well dressed indeed since they become miniature models a la mode for the grown-ups.

At the recent Fashion fete models for an American made maid of tender years were as important a feature of the exhibit as were any of those for the older members of the American beauty family.

One lovely little model of softest rose velvet was out in a pleated and hung straight from the little low round neck to the knees. Hand embroidery in different shades of rose silk bordered the neck and sleeves which were of equal length and also were carried out down the front of the dress in a panel effect.

The other little dress of knife pleated white chiffon hung from the round baby neck in a long blouse effect to the knees where it was gathered by a garland of tiny pink ribbon rose buds. These finished the short sleeves and the neck also.

Embroidered net over flesh colored silk makes a pretty frock of light delight to the heart of any little woman. Let three tiny ruffles of the net outline the short waist, the elbows and sleeves and five short full skirt and her cup will bring over with joy even as her frock buds over with life.

Quaint long waisted kindergarten and play frocks of tan or blue linen embroidered in bright reds, greens and blues on the little turn over collar, turn back cuffs and low wide belt which holds in the box pleats of the frock are very charming. Little white dresses hanging full from yokes smocked in pink or blue are also artistic and picturesque.

Childhood is coated this year preferably in velvet or corduroy. Like the grownups and whether they took it from the grownups or vice versa is a question. Sand and putty color velvet or corduroy is very popular and pretty especially when collared, edged with velvet or corduroy and with the long waisted side belted models prevail above all others for the favored coats. Brown is another popular shade and black velvet trimmed in saffron is very chic indeed for Miss Six year old.

Little inverted bowl shaped hats of velvet with a band of fur to match that on the coat or a curling ostrich feather around the crown are vastly becoming to small heads. One Fifth Avenue shops is showing adorable little skulldie shaped bonnets of pale blue, pale pink or white chiffon velvet with just a nosegay of tiny pink rose buds and forget-me-nots on one side. A pair of creation of the new shaped variety has a trim of chinchilla fur and the round crown is of palest blue inch wide moire ribbon overlapping in longitudinal tucked effect. A tiny rosette of the ribbon finished the very top of the crown where the ribbon ends converge.

Little brother isn't to be put down any more with hand me downs or suits de lux evolved from Fathers cast off trousers. David Copperfield and Oliver Twist effects still continue good for young hopefuls only the winter models are fashioned mostly with bright hued corduroy trousers and white china silk waists. Some of these have little separate coats of corduroy to match. A quaint little old fashioned new-fashioned suit has a funny little jacket of bright plaid wool with gold buttons and three quarter length trousers of black velvet. For all the world like "when Gramps was a boy."

Long trousered sailor suits in either white flannel or blue serge are always smart. Top coats of grey or brown chinchilla are shown in belted models and a cunning harebell box model with Raglan sleeves of English mixture is as exact a copy of Father's 1914 model top coat as to take a

WOMEN GRUBSTAKER WINS STEP IN SUIT FOR $6,000,000 SHARE

Victory has been scored by Mrs. Elia Heim in the first step of her sensational legal battle on the coast for property and cash aggregating $6,000,000, which she asserts is due her by Jeremiah L. Wilson, his wife, Alice, and J. S. Kimball, reputed millionaires, and the Wilson-Kimball Mining Company. The odds were turned in favor of Mrs. Heim when Superior Judge Trout of San Francisco ruled that as Mrs. Heim had "grubstaked" Wilson and his wife to Alaska under an agreement to divide the proceeds, she was entitled to a share in the profits.

An important witness for Mrs. Heim at the hearing was her pretty sixteen-year-old daughter, Marie.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Wetted Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and a headache, a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSEBORG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Many Recoveries From Lung Trouble

Wilmington, Del. I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, a leading practitioner, said that it was lung trouble. I got very weak. C. A. Mendenhall, of Wilmington, Del., recommended Eckman's Alternative. That had done great good. I began taking it at once. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I now have no trace of my lung trouble. I firmly believe Eckman's Alternative saved my life. The CALL of the CUMBERLANDS

BY CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK
WITH ILLUSTRATIONS FROM PHOTOGRAPHS OF SCENES IN THE PLAY

"By staying here, you can't help them. It won't be work for guns, but for brains. By going away and coming back armed with knowledge, you can save them. You will know how to play the game."

"I reckon they won't git our land, fier our timber, ner our coal, without we wants ter sell hit. I reckon of they tries that, guns will come in handy. Things has stood here like they is now, fer a hundred years. I reckon we kin keep 'em that-away fer a spell longer."

But it was evident that Samson was arguing against his own belief; that he was trying to bolster up his resolution and impeached loyalty, and that at heart he was sick to be up and going to a world which did not despise "education." After a little, he waved his hand vaguely toward "down below."

"Et I went down thar," he questioned suddenly and irrelevantly, "would I hev' ter cut my hair?"

"My dear boy," laughed Lescott, I can introduce you in New York studies to many distinguished gentlemen who would feel that their heads had been short if they let their locks get as short as yours. In New York, you might stroll along Broadway garbed in turban and a burlesque without greatly exciting anybody. I think my own hair is as long as yours."

"Because," doggedly declared the mountaineer, "I wouldn't allow nobody ter make me cut my hair."

"Why?" questioned Lescott, amused at the stubborn infection.

"I don't hardly know why—" He paused, then admitted with a glare as though defying criticism: "Sally likes hit that-away—an' I won't let nobody dictate ter me, that's all."

The heaven was working, and one night Samson announced to his uncle from the doorway that he was "studyin' 'bout goin' away fer a spell, an' seein' the world."

The old man laid down his pipe. He cast a reproachful glance at the painter, which said clearly, though without words:

"I have opened my home to you and offered you what I had, yet in my old age you take away my mainstay."

"I loved you was a studyin' 'bout thet, Samson," he said, at last. "I've done ther best fer ye I knowed. I kinder loved that from now on ye'd do the same fer me. I'm gittin' along in years right smart."

"Uncle Spicer," interrupted the boy, "I reckon ye knows that any time ye needed me I'd come back."

The old man's face hardened.

"Ef ye goes," he said, almost sharply, "I won't never send fer ye. Any time ye ever wants ter come back, ye knows ther way. Thar'll be room an' victuals fer ye hyar."

"I reckon I mout be a heap more useful ef I knowed more."

"I've heard fellers say that afore. Hit hain't never turned out that way with them what has left the mountings. Mebbe they gets more useful, but they don't git useful ter us. Either they don't come back at all, or mebbe they comes back full of newfangled notions—an' ashamed of their kinfolks. That's the way, I've noticed, hit generally turns out."

Samson scorned to deny that such might be the case with him, and was silent. After a time, the old man went on again in a weary voice, as he bent down to loosen his brogans and kicked them off on to the floor:

"T. Souths hev done looked to ye a good deal, Samson. They loved they could depend on ye. Ye hain't quite twenty-one yet, an' I reckon I could refuse ter let ye sell yer prop'ty. But thar hain't no use tryin' ter hold a feller when he wants ter quit. Ye don't low ter go right away, do ye?"

"I hain't plumb made up my mind ter go at all," said the boy, shamefacedly. "But, ef I does go, I hain't a-goin' yit. I hain't spoke ter nobody but you about hit yit."

Lescott felt reluctant to meet his host's eyes at breakfast the next morning, dreading their reproach, but, if Spicer South harbored resentment, he meant to conceal it, after the old's code. There was no hint of constraint in his cordiality. Lescott felt, however, that in Samson's mind was working the leaven of that unspoken accusation of disloyalty. He resolved to make a final play, and seek to enlist Sally in his cause. If Sally's hero-worship could be made to take the form of ambition for Samson, she might be brought to relinquish him for a time, and urge his going that he might return strengthened. He went down to the creek at the hour when he knew Sally would be making her way thither with her milk pail, and intercepted her coming.

As she approached, she was singing, and the man watched her from the distance. He was a landscape painter and not a master of genre or portrait. Yet, he wished that he might, before going, paint Sally.

"Miss Sally," he began, "I've discovered something about Samson."

Her blue eyes flashed ominously.

"Ye can't tell me nothin' 'bout Samson," she declared, "withouten hit's somethin' nice."

"It's something very nice," the man reassured her.

"Then, ye needn't tell me, because I already knows hit," came her prompt and confident announcement.

Lescott shook his head, dubiously.

"Samson is a genius," he said.

"What's thet?"

"He has great gifts—great abilities to become a figure in the world."

"I Have Opened My Home to You and Offered You What I Had, Yet in My Old Age, You Take Away My Mainstay."

She nodded her head, in prompt and full corroboration.

"I reckon Samson'll be the biggest man in the mountings some day."

"He ought to be more than that."

Suspicion at once cast a cloud across the violet serenity of her eyes.

"What does ye mean?" she demanded.

"I mean"—the painter paused a moment, and then said bluntly—"I mean that I want to take him back with me to New York."

LITTLE BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Mother Tells How Her Little Son Was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

New York City.—"About five years ago my little boy, then seven years old, was very ill with gastritis, then he contracted measles from the other children, pneumonia soon followed, and there seemed no hope of saving his life. However, we fought off the disease and he recovered, but was in a very weak and delicate condition."

"The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but his little stomach swelled up like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself, with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That bloated condition soon disappeared, and now he is a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol."—Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, 1090 Park Ave., New York City.

In all cases where the healing, curative, tissue building influence of cod liver oil, or the strength-creating, blood-making properties of tonic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease and tastes delicious.—Smith Drug Co., Jamesville, Wis.

The girl sprang to her feet with her chin defiantly high and her brown hands clenched into tight little fists. Her bosom heaved convulsively, and her eyes blazed through tears of anger. Her face was pale.

"Ye hain't!" she cried, in a paroxysm of fear and wrath. "Ye hain't a-goin' ter do no sich—no sich of a damn thing!" She stamped her foot, and her whole girlish body, drawn into rigid uprightness, was a quiver with the incarnate spirit of the woman defending her home and institutions. For a moment after that, she could not speak, but her determined eyes blazed a declaration of war. It was as though he had bowed her as the Spirit of the Cumberland.

He waited until she should be calmer.

"Ye don't understand me, Miss Sally. I'm not trying to take Samson away from you. If a man should lose a girl like you, he couldn't gain enough in the world to make up for it. All I want is that he shall have the chance to make the best of his life."

"I reckon Samson don't need no fotch-on help ter make folks acknowledge him."

"Every man needs his chance. He can be a great painter—but that's the least part of it. He can come back equipped for anything that life offers. Here, he is wasted."

"Ye mean"—she put the question with a hurt quaver in her voice—"ye mean we all hain't good enough for Samson?"

"No, I only mean that Samson wants to grow—and he needs space and new scenes in which to grow. I want to take him where he can see more of the world—not only a little section of the world. Surely, you are not distrustful of Samson's loyalty? I want him to go with me for a while, and see life."

"Don't ye say hit!" The defiance in her voice was being pathetically tangled up with the tears. She was speaking in a transport of grief. "Don't ye say hit. Take anybody else—take 'em all down thar, but leave us Samson. We needs him hyar. We've jest got ter have Samson hyar."

She faced him still with quivering lips, but in another moment, with a sudden sob, she dropped to the rock, and buried her face in her crossed arms. He went over and softly laid a hand on her shoulder.

"Miss Sally—" he began.

She suddenly turned on him a tear-stained, infuriated face, stormy with blazing eyes and wet cheeks and trembling lips.

"Don't touch me," she cried; "don't ye dare ter touch me! I hain't nothin' but a gal—but I reckon I could 'most tear ye ter pieces. Ye're jest a pizen snake, anyhow!" Then, she pointed a tremulous finger off up the road. "Git away from hyar," she commanded. "I don't never want ter see ye again. Ye're tryin' ter steal everything I loves. Git away, I tells ye!—git away—begone!"

"Think it over," urged Lescott, quietly. "See if your heart doesn't say I am Samson's friend—and yours." He turned, and began making his way over the rocks; but, before he had gone far, he sat down to reflect upon the situation. Certainly, he was not augmenting his popularity. A half-hour later, he heard a rustle, and, turning, saw Sally standing not far off. She was hesitating at the edge of the underbrush, and Lescott read in her eyes the effort it was costing her to come forward and apologize.

"I reckon—I reckon I've got ter ask yore pardon," she said, slowly and with labored utterance. "He looked up to see her standing with her head drooping and her fingers nervously pulling a flower to pieces."

"I reckon I hain't a plumb fool. I knows that Samson's got a right ter education. Anyhow, I knows he wants hit."

"Education," said the man, "Isn't going to change Samson, except to make him finer than he is—and more capable."

She shook her head. "I hain't got no education," she answered. "Hit's a-goin' ter make him too good fer me. I reckon hit's a-goin' ter jest about kill me. . . ." Her lips twisted themselves into a pathetic smile again, and her chin came stiffly up. "But," she added, determinedly, "thet don't make no difference, nobow."

Yet, when Samson that evening gave his whippoorwill call at the Widow Miller's cabin, he found a dejected and miserable girl sitting on the stile, with her chin propped in her two hands and her eyes full of somberness and foreboding.

"What's the matter, Sally?" questioned he, anxiously. "Hes that low-down Tamarack Spicer been 'round here tellin' ye some more stories ter pester ye?"

She shook her head in silence. Usually, she bore the brunt of their conversations. Samson, merely, agree-

"Thar's a-goin' ter be a dauch' party over ter Wile McCager's mill come Saturday," he insistently suggested. "I reckon ye'll go over thar with me, won't ye, Sally?"

He waited for her usual delighted assent, but Sally only told him absently and without enthusiasm that she would "study about it." At last, however, her restraint broke, and, looking up, she abruptly demanded:

"Air ye a-goin' away, Samson?"

"Who's been a-talkin' ter ye?" demanded the boy, angrily.

For a moment, the girl sat silent. Finally, she spoke in a grave voice:

"Hit hain't nothin' ter git mad about, Samson. The artist man 'lowed as how ye had a right ter go down thar, an' git an education." She made a weary gesture toward the great beyond.

"He hadn't ought to of told ye, Sally. I'd a-told ye myself—not but what I knows," he hastily amended, "thet he meant hit friendly."

"Air ye a-goin'?"

"I'm studyin' about hit."

He awaited objection, but none came. Then, with a piquing of his masculine vanity, he demanded:

"Hain't ye a-keerin', Sally, whether I knows, or not?"

Marie Caslova, the violinist, tells of a reception at which she was to be the soloist, which was given by a woman whose sudden wealth had not brought her musical knowledge.

"When I called her up five hours before the reception to ask about the condition of the piano, she exclaimed: 'I sent the piano back to the factory last week for repairs. Can't you play something without one?' The only things I had at my fingers' ends for violin alone were some Bach sonatas. This gave me an inspiration. 'Certainly, I can play the Chopin,' I answered. After a moment's silence a disappointed voice replied: 'But, my dear, I would so much rather you played the violin.'"

Theodore Dreiser, the novelist, was talking of criticism.

"I like pointed criticism," he said, "criticism such as I heard in the lobby of a theatre the other night at the end of the play."

COMBING WON'T RID HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The Easiest and Best Way Is to Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and every one notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

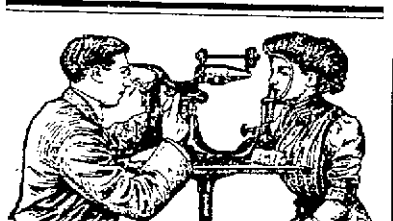

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GOVERNMENT AGENTS DECLARE NO DANGER OF DISEASE SPREAD

Recommend Pasteurization of All Milk Suspected to be Contaminated With Hoof and Mouth Disease Germs.

The anxiety that has been expressed in several quarters in regard to the effect upon human health of the present outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease is regarded by Government authorities as somewhat exaggerated. The most common fear is that the milk supply might become contaminated, but in view of the precautions that the local authorities in the infected areas are very generally making, there is comparatively little danger of this. Milk from infected farms is not permitted to be shipped at all. The only danger is, therefore, that before the disease has manifested itself some infected milk might reach the market. For this reason experts in the department recommend pasteurization. As a matter of fact, however, pasteurization is recommended by the department anyway, as milk that is not very high grade and from tubercula-tested cows.

It has been demonstrated by experiments which have been made in Denmark that pasteurization will serve as a safeguard against contagion from the foot-and-mouth disease just as readily as it does against typhoid fever, but in any event it must be thoroughly done. The milk must be heated to 145 degrees F. and held at this temperature for 30 minutes.

Few Dangers.
In this country the foot-and-mouth disease has rarely been reported. There are few recorded cases of its transmission to human beings. In 1902 a few cases were reported in New England and in 1908 in a few instances eruptions were found in the mouths of children which were believed to have been caused by contaminated milk. In both of these outbreaks the sale of milk was stopped as soon as the disease was found among the children. It is therefore as the district can be confined by rigid quarantine to certain specified areas the danger from this source is very small. Should the pestilence spread all over this country and become as general as it has been at various times in large areas in Europe, the problem would become more serious. Under any circumstances, however, pasteurization is not possible and where there are any reasons to suspect that the disease may exist the precaution of boiling milk might be advisable.

Cows affected with the malignant form of disease lose practically all of their milk. In mild cases, however, the decrease may be from one-third to one-half of the usual yield. The appearance of the milk also changes. It becomes thinner, bluish, and more in fact. When it is affected, the milk frequently contains coagulated fibrin and blood, so that a considerable sediment forms, while the cream is thin and of a dirty color. These changes, however, occur only when the disease is in an advanced stage and, as a matter of fact, the disease is not permitted to pass into an advanced stage, as any stricken animal is at once slaughtered.

Effect on Humans.
Men who come in contact with diseased animals may also become infected. In adult human beings the contagion causes such symptoms as mouth sores, painful swallowing, fever, and occasional eruptions on the hands, finger tips, etc. While causing considerable discomfort, however, the disease is rarely serious. Where it is prevalent among animals, some authorities believe that it is fairly general among human beings, but that the disturbances it causes are usually so slight that they are not brought to the attention of the family physician. There is, in fact, a very good reason for everyone giving the diseased animals as wide a berth as possible, namely, that otherwise they may easily carry the disease to perfectly healthy herds. Federal inspectors engaged in the work of eradicating the pestilence are thoroughly equipped with rubber coats, hats, boots, and gloves, which may be completely disinfected, and others who lack this equipment are strongly urged not to allow their curiosity to induce them to become a menace to their own and their neighbors' property.

Quarantine Milk.
The disease, in short, is dangerous because of the loss that it occasions to property, and not because of its effects upon the health of mankind. At present all infected herds are being slaughtered as soon as they are discovered, the carcasses buried, and the premises thoroughly disinfected. Until further order of this kind has been removed in this way, the local authorities quarantine the milk.

Those who wish additional precautions are recommended to use pasteurized milk, but as has already been said, this recommendation holds true whether or not there is any fear of the foot-and-mouth disease.

Poultry Immune.
The rise in price of poultry of all kinds is reported to have taken place in various States and is, in the opinion of experts in the Department of Agriculture, be in any way attributed to the outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease. This disease does not affect poultry at all, and the Federal quarantine of various kinds of animals in all—now lay no embargo upon shipments of poultry.

It is true that when a case of foot-and-mouth disease is found upon a farm, the farm is absolutely quarantined by the State or local authorities. No produce of any sort can leave it, the owner is not even permitted to drive his horses on the public highway, and in some cases the children are not allowed to go to school until the exposed stock have been done away with and the entire premises thoroughly disinfected.

Since the disease, moreover, is readily communicated from farm to farm by cats, dogs, poultry, and human beings, the local authorities exercise their own discretion in determining what restrictions should be placed upon shipments of produce from the areas in the immediate vicinity of the infected farms. These areas are, in limited extent, however, that the amount of poultry that may thus be prevented from reaching the market is an inappreciable percentage of the total supply. Poultry from uninfected areas in the various quarantined States can be moved freely without the least danger of spreading the disease or of injuring the health of the consumer.

Evansville News

Evansville, Nov. 27.—Harold Lewis, formerly of Albany, who was chief at Baraboo, is suffering from very severe burns received while repairing an engine. It seems that the gasoline engine used by the company has balked for some time. Several men have attempted to repair it and failed, so young Lewis took it apart, cleaned it and put it together. When he attempted to start it, it backfired, burning him very severely about the neck and face. He has as yet been unable to open his eyes, so it is impossible to know whether or not his sight is affected. It is thought, however, that he will regain his sight and will have but a small scar. He would not allow his parents here to be notified until he was in the hospital convalescing.

Wash-Day Is No Night-Mare Now -"SKITCH" Did It

"SKITCH" Makes Rubbing Clothes on a Wash-Day Pure Foolishness—A Ten Cent Package of "SKITCH" Makes 7 Happy Wash Days.

Women, SKITCH is a modern miracle. SKITCH makes the meanest wash a mere trifle. Get a 10-cent package of SKITCH of your grocer to-day and see the load it lifts off wash-day. No matter how dirty your wash is, SKITCH will save you the hard work of rubbing. "My husband is an engineer," says Mrs. Ernest Hinkel, 121 Kneeland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., "and gets his clothes badly soiled, but SKITCH cleans them perfectly without rubbing. I would not do without SKITCH."

It's simply grand! A 10-cent package of SKITCH saves all the rubbing on seven big washings, and on every wash saves enough soap to pay for the whole package.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 461 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Kerosene for the Hands.

Kerosene will clean your hands better than anything else after blacking a range or stove. Pour a little in the water, wash your hands in it, then wash them in tepid water, and finally with plenty of soap and a stiff nail brush in hot water. Finish up by rubbing the hands with lemon juice, rose water or glycerine.

TRAINMEN'S DANCE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Large Gathering at Assembly Hall on Thanksgiving Eve at Rock River Lodge Party.

Between one hundred and seventy-five and two hundred couples attended the Thanksgiving Eve dance of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen at Assembly Hall. The party was one of the most successful affairs of the season.

Hatch's orchestra furnished inspiring music for the long program of mixed dances. The old folks' quadrille for the "old" boys and their wives intermingled with two-steps and waltzes, hesitations, one-steps and numerous other of the newer dances made time fly fast and the evening one of intense enjoyment.

At twelve o'clock the couples went to the various restaurants for supper, and returning the majority again tripped the light fantastic until the three o'clock hour.

Long streamer ropes of fluffy white falling in graceful curves from the immense light dome in the center, to the sides, offered a huge canopy of beauty. The decorations as a whole were simple, yet highly harmonious.

Many out of town railroad men and their guests were present.

Much credit for the success of the party is due to the arrangement committee of Thomas Murphy, W. R. Pitzer and John Joerg, and the floor committee composed of Fred Dixon, George Barry, J. J. Dulin, L. V. Mitchell, L. D. Horn, Charles Gregory, Joseph Dempsey and Charles Kruse.

OBITUARY.

James Canary.

The death of James Canary occurred Tuesday, the 24th, at Kaukauna, Wis. The remains were brought to Janesville and interred in the city cemetery Wednesday. CONGRESS AT WAR ON NAVY QUESTION

WOLF HUNTING MAY BE POPULAR SPORT

Rock County Nimrods Have Chance to Hunt Down Several Packs of Wary Animals.

Wolf-hunting promises to be an exciting sport for Rock county nimrods this fall following the discovery of several packs of the animals in the vicinity of Janesville. The first hunter to shoot down a wolf was Henry Brosh, of Genoa, who was paid a $20 bounty at the county clerk's office on Wednesday. Brosh killed one of a pack of seven in the vicinity of the Asher farm. It is reported that another large pack between here and Milton is becoming bold enough to attack sheep and farmers are preparing to exterminate the beasts.

Dinner will be served in the church at twelve o'clock. The public is invited to the services of the day.

ITALIAN GIVEN TERM UNDER COMMITMENT LAW BY JUDGE C. L. FIFIELD

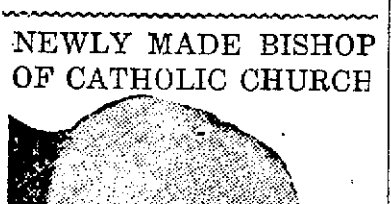

Fred Paladino, an Italian, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty, on the charging of pointing a revolver at Ralph Palmer, and was sentenced to fifty days under the commitment law in default of a fine of forty dollars and costs. Judge Fifield was called to hear the case in the municipal court because of the illness of Judge H. L. Maxfield. Attorney Gardner Kalkvelde represented Paladino.

JONAH STILL FOLLOWS THE JANESVILLE CARS

Janesville's new street cars still continue to be a center of attraction—off the tracks. Last night the late Milton avenue car suffered a derailment at the corner of Milwaukee and Milton avenues.

NEWLY MADE BISHOP OF CATHOLIC CHURCH

Bishop Thomas Shahan.

Mgr. Thomas Shahan, head of the Catholic University at Washington, has recently been elevated to titular bishop of the see of Germanopolis. His elevation was due to an order of the late Pope Pius X and the ceremony was performed by Cardinal Gibbons at Baltimore. Since his consecration Bishop Shahan has received a number of handsome gifts from his friends in many places, including a pastoral cross from the faculty, a gold chalice from the students, an episcopal ring from the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a gold crosier from the faculty of Trinity College and many other rich and handsome presents.

With the iron bands that have held Alaska in check for many years broken, there is nothing but an optimistic future in store for this northwest territory of the United States, according to the annual report of Gov. J. F. A. Strong to the secretary of the interior, just made public by that official. Even the past year has been an exceedingly bright one for the territory, according to the governor.

What Does Your Mirror Say to You

If Your Face Is Not Fair You Are Not Fair to Your Face. Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers and Banish Pimples, etc.

Before beauty can ever be realized it must have a complexion that adds to its lustre, that makes a magnificent face contour radiate an artistic color. The charm of all beauty rests chiefly in the clear skin, the pure red blood, the soft cream-like complexion.

"It is an Exquisite Joy to Look in My Mirror Now—Stuart's Calcium Wafers Gave Me Back My Clear Complexion."

Stuart's Calcium Wafers act directly upon the sweat glands of the skin, since their mission is to stimulate the excretory ducts. They do not create perspiration, but cause the skin to breathe out vigorously, thus transforming perspiration into a gaseous vapor. The calcium sulphide of which these wafers are composed consumes the germ poisons in the sweat glands and pores, hence the blood makes a new, smooth skin in a surprisingly short time.

You will never be ashamed to look at yourself in a mirror once you use Stuart's Calcium Wafers. Nor will your friends give you that hinting look, as much as to say—for goodness' sake, get rid of those pimples.

There is no longer any excuse for anyone to have a face disfigured with skin eruptions, when it is so easy to get rid of them. Simply get a box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store and take them according to directions. After a few days you will hardly recognize yourself in the mirror. The change will delight you immensely. All blemishes will disappear.

All druggists sell Stuart's Calcium Wafers at 50 cents a box. A small sample package mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Captriffs in Winter.

Upon the authority of a government official it has been recently announced that the captriffs may be carried over winter weather if kept in a protected place and packed in layers of sand. This discovery assures the dig-grower of a supply of captriffs regardless of the severity of the weather.

Just a Few More Saturdays and This Great Cut Price Sale Is Over.

F. J. BAILEY & SON

ON THE BRIDGE.

Pick the Plums While They Are Ripe. Next Month You Cannot Pick Them.

The Time To Pick Plums Is When They Are Ripe, Not After the Season Is Over. The Time To Secure Bargains Is While the Sale Lasts, Not After It Is Over.

We Are Surely Going and We Are Going Pretty Quick.

Our Beloit store is calling for our help; it needs our clerks and it needs our assistance. Until we do go you can continue to come to us and buy all articles of Dry Goods from 10 to 50% reductions. Don't wait until the last few days when we will be overwhelmed with the final rush, but come now and cover your winter wants.
